

Freedom Of Expression tonight in Lennoxville

Kembrew McLeod et Jeremy Smith invite you to Cafe Java. The Community Art Lab of the Foreman Art Gallery is pleased to invite the public to the free screening of Freedom of Expression (2007), produced by Kembrew McLeod and Jeremy Smith, which will be shown at café Java, tonight, October 21, at 7 p.m. at 168 rue Queen, Lennoxville. Admission by donation.

The documentary explores questions of copyright and the battles being waged in courts, classrooms, museums, film studios, and the Internet over control of our cultural commons. Copyright issues address current trends in contemporary art, such as the appropriation and reproduction of art works and cultural material that places authorship into question.

This event is part of the monthly film nights, "Picture

This," organized by the Community Art Lab and is linked to the Live Free: Copyright Series that critically engages with the role of copyright in our lives. Please note that the film will be screened in English.

Following the film screening, the public will be invited to participate in a discussion on copyright and how the recent amendments to Canadian copyright laws impact their everyday lives.

Upcoming events are Remixing Artist: Roundtable & Networking event, on November 5, 7:30 p.m. at the Foreman Art Gallery, which will explore the issues of artist rights, copyright, creative commons and the remixing of culture in the 21st century.

For more information, please contact: Yaël Filipovic, Curator, Education & Cultural Action at 822-9600, extension 2279 or artlab@ubishops.ca